FOUNDATION

FOUNDATION COURSE

What you need to know about this program

The SAE Foundation course encompasses the skills necessary for entering an undergraduate creative media course at SAE University College Dubai. Taking into account the different school curricula of the UAE and international students who travel to Dubai for their studies, the SAE Foundation aims to close the gap between the skills of prospective students and the creative media degree course entry requirements. The course consists of 7 units (80 credit points) delivered over one year (three trimesters) of full-time study.

Learning Outcomes

- Develop core cognitive skills in examining information, creating clear written work, communicating effectively, and using visual communication technologies in their learning. This establishes a basis for progression to more advanced critical thinking and communication skills.
- Enhance and utilise communication, numeracy, and literacy skills to effectively share knowledge and ideas with authentic audiences through a variety of mediums.

DESIGN

BACHELOR OF DESIGN AND VISUAL COMMUNICATION

Design Project by: Elaiza Marie Lubao

What you need to know about this program

If you're drawn to a career where imagination shapes what you create, Design and Visual Communication could be the right path for you.

This field goes beyond visual aesthetics, giving you a strong understanding and hands-on experience of how design functions in the contemporary world. You will explore branding and identity, digital and print design, image-making, and user-centred design. Along the way, you will create targeted work for specific audiences and build the ability to develop creative solutions to complex challenges across different contexts.

Your progress is assessed holistically through industry-style projects, helping you think strategically while responding to client needs. You will also build a diverse portfolio to present to potential employers and clients. This program prepares you for a fast-changing landscape, equipping you with the skills to apply design-led thinking across a wide range of communication challenges. Graduates can pursue careers in large organisations, boutique agencies, freelance work, or entrepreneurial teams across various industries.

GAMES

BACHELOR OF GAMES DEVELOPMENT

What you need to know about this program

Make the transition from gamer to game developer, exploring a wide range of genres and platforms including role-playing games, platformers, adventure games, PC, first-person shooters, mobile, and VR. You will also gain insight into managerial roles within the games industry through intensive, targeted courses developed in collaboration with professionals from both local and international game studios.

Games are now among the most significant entertainment properties worldwide. Beyond entertainment, industries are increasingly adopting gamification and serious games to encourage behavioural change, particularly in healthcare, training, and safety.

As students progress through the program, they undertake specialised courses in artificial intelligence, scriptwriting, game development, and agent systems. This prepares you for career paths in game play programming, game engine programming, and game design.

The Games Development program at SAE prepares undergraduates for hands-on, industry-focused development roles, building both technical and creative capabilities for real-world production environments.
